DID YOU KNOW?

"Florence and the Machine (stylised as Florence + the Machine) are an English indie rock band formed in London in 2007 by lead vocalist Florence Welch. The band's music is renowned for its dramatic, eccentric production and Welch's powerful vocals.

The newly released song "Everybody Scream" is a dark and emotional song about power, transformation, and release. It shows what it feels like to give all your energy to something – almost like casting a spell. The singer seems to go through a ritual where pain and beauty mix together. You can imagine her calling on mysterious forces, trying to control them but also being changed by them.

The general vibe reminds of a modern spell or a ritual of strength. The "screaming" expresses as a way of letting go of fear or sadness – just like witches in stories use their voices, music, or movement to release their magic. The song celebrates the moment when emotions become power, when something dark turns into energy.

The video looks like a short witch film. Florence walks through a dark, strange place followed by a group of women dressed in black, almost like a coven. They enter a large old house where something strange begins to happen. The people inside start to move uncontrollably, as if they are possessed by magic.

The women dance in a powerful, mysterious way – their movements look like a ritual or a summoning. It feels as if they are calling spirits or energy from another world. The atmosphere is very dramatic, with red light, smoke, and shadows that make everything feel supernatural. At the end, Florence stands in the centre of the circle of women and lets out a final scream – a moment that looks like a magical release or the end of a spell. It's not scary in a violent way, but in a mystical one – showing how strength can come from emotion, pain, and unity.

EVERYBODY SCREAM

Get on the _____
And I call her by her first name
Try to stay away
But I'll always _____ her _____ at this place
She gives me everything, I feel no pain
I break down, and get up, and do it all again
Because it's never _____, and she makes me feel _____
I can come here and scream as _____ as I want

Everybody dance (yeah)

Everybody sing (ah)

Everybody move (hey)

Everybody scream (ah!)

Here, I don't have to _____ Here, I don't have to be _____ Extraordinary and normal, all at the same time
But look at me run _____ ragged
Blood on the stage
But how can I leave you when you're screaming my name?
Screaming my name
And I will come to you in the _____, ragged and reeling
Shaking my gold like a tambourine
A bouquet of brambles, all twisted and _____ I'll make you sing for me, I'll make you scream

[chorus]

Here, I can take up the _____ of the sky
Unfurling, becoming my full size
And look at me burst through the _____ Aren't you so glad you came?
Breathless and begging and screaming my name
Screaming my name
Everybody jump, everybody sing
Everybody move, everybody scream
Everybody _____, put down your scream
Everybody up, everybody scream!
The witchcraft, the _____, the spells, and the injections
The harvest, the needle, protect me from

The magic and the misery, madness and the mystery
Oh, what has it done to me? Everybody scream
